The salient objectives of the Stamford University Research Centre(SURC) is to established an ISO standard and accredited Research Centre to develop Research as per International standard in the field of fundamental as well as applied research.
SURC Board

SURC Board consists of six members who are appointed by the SUB Foundation. The board takes the overall responsibility of SURC. The board is responsible for SURC’s administration, disposition of SURC’s resources, budgeting, and strategic planning. SURC Board appoints the Central Management and forms the Research Council.

SURC Center/Division

Each center is headed by one of the research directors, who assumes the overall responsibility for the results of the center. Research directors have to possess relevant academic experience.

Each center bases its operations upon a broad range of academic areas designed to reflect the needs and demands of modern society.

Each Center is academically autonomous and has a mandate to negotiate contracts, manage financial operations, and manage its human resources.

The centers are primarily divided into research groups which can vary in size and longevity. The research groups collaborate freely among themselves and, on a cross-disciplinary basis, with similar groups from other centers whenever suitable.

SURC Central Management

The central management consists of Administrative Director, Chief Accountant, and Communication Chief. The Administrative Director is responsible for the day-to-day management of SURC, coordination within the entire SURC and the outside.

SURC Research Council

Research Council consists of both internal and external members. The council provides counselling to the centers/divisions, reviews proposals for new centers and projects, and evaluates their progress.
